

Farmer Finds Wreckage

Plane Crash Fatal To Dr. Augenstein

EAST LANSING (AP) — Funeral services will be held Tuesday for Dr. Leroy G. Augenstein, noted Michigan educator and biophysicist who once said he was dedicated to "trying to bridge the gap between religion, science and politics."

Services for the 41-year-old chairman of the Michigan State University Biophysics Department will be held at 2 p.m. at the Peoples Church in East Lansing.

Crashed In Fog
Augenstein, a member of the State Board of Education, was killed Saturday when his private, twin-engine Piper Apache crashed in fog about two miles from Beech Airport at Charlotte.

The craft plummeted into an eight-foot-high tree stump in a farmer's field and disintegrated. Kenneth Briggs, a farmer, discovered the wreckage of the blue and white plane some 18 hours after Augenstein was scheduled to have returned to the Charlotte airport after giving a speech Friday night at Eastern College at Richmond, Ind.

Veered Away From Airport
Sheriff Elwyn Smith of Eaton County said the apparent angle of the aircraft where it crashed indicated Augenstein may have lost his way in fog and low clouds and veered away from the airport.

Augenstein's plane was not equipped for instrument landings. William Walbeck, president of the Eaton Flying Service at the Charlotte airport, said Augenstein had complained to him on Friday of a defective gyroscope in the plane. Walbeck said a defective gyroscope could lead to a pilot becoming disoriented on his directions during fog or clouds.

Miss Mourning
The death of Augenstein, who had been considering seeking the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate in 1970, brought words of tribute from political and educational leaders.

Gov. William Milliken said Augenstein's death "still a vital voice. It is particularly tragic that his death occurred so early in an already outstanding career."

"He worked unflinchingly for what he believed to be the public good," said Dr. Walter Adams, acting president of Michigan State University.

"Dr. Augenstein personified the questing mind of the scientist together with a passionate concern for people," said Dr. Peter Oppewell, president of the State Board of Education, and Dr. John Porter, acting state superintendent of public instruction. In their joint statement, they added: "It is perhaps fitting that one of his last major endeavors in terms of board activity had to do with teaching youngsters of the dangers of drug use."

Expert On Genetics
Augenstein was considered an expert on genetics. He also was known as a lay theologian and had served as adjunct professor at the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

In 1968 he said he received 1,200 requests for speaking engagements and estimated he was able to accept an astounding 500 during the year. It was in 1968 that he bought his 1965 Piper Apache to help whisk him about the state and nation.

Before 1968, when he joined MSU to become chairman of the Biophysics Department he led research projects in biology at Brookhaven National Laboratories on Long Island, N.Y., and served with the Atomic Energy Commission in Washington.

Illness Gradual
Augenstein received his Ph.D. from the University of Illinois in 1956 after earning a master's degree at the University of Chicago.

He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth; a son, David Leroy, 4; a daughter, Kimberly Beth, 1; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Augenstein of Decatur, Ill., and brother, David, also of Decatur.

Private burial services will be held Wednesday at Evergreen Cemetery in Lansing.

Anti-American Label For MOBE
PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Mich., said Sunday that the New Mobilization Committee is pro-Communist and anti-American.

"Both the New Mobilization (committee) and the peace movement which it professes to lead are phony. They are both pro-Communist and anti-American," Curtis declared.

Curtis, considered a hawk on the Vietnam war, said that "the role being played by the so-called New Mobilization committee will go down in history as a shameful, disgraceful act, serving to intensify and increase the suffering of Americans who already have suffered heavily in physical and mental anguish because of the Communists' cruel treatment of prisoners."

Not only does the New MOBE, as it is called, want the United States to unilaterally withdraw its troops from South Vietnam, he added, but they "want to bring about the destruction of the United States of America."

Today's Chuckle
There's a real sense of pride in paying taxes in the United States. The only thing is—we could be just as proud for half the money.

O'Neil, Polley Pay Respects To 'Comrade'

LANSING (AP) — James F. O'Neil, Treasurer of the State Board of Education, has cancelled a scheduled Monday news conference "out of respect for my fallen colleague."

O'Neil referred to the death of Dr. Leroy Augenstein who was killed in a plane crash Saturday. "Society is a better place because of Leroy Augenstein and those associated with him are better people as a result of having known and worked with Leroy Augenstein," O'Neil said.

There had been speculation O'Neil would announce his intentions of running for U.S. Senator against Philip Hart at the news conference.

AUGENSTEIN CITED
LANSING (AP)—Dr. Ira Polley, former State Superintendent of Public Instruction, issued a statement Sunday praising Dr. Leroy Augenstein, a member of the State Board of Education who was killed in a plane crash Saturday.

Polley, who recently resigned his position under heavy pressure from the board, said "The citizens of Michigan have lost a highly talented scientist, professor and public official."

"Dr. Augenstein's life was characterized by excellence, high ethical values and ceaseless efforts to achieve a better life for all people," Polley said. "He was a very able and deeply dedicated member of the State Board of Education," Polley continued.

"Dr. Augenstein's searching and inquisitive mind, his sound judgement, and his good humor were placed at work to improve educational opportunities and programs for all school children."

ASTRONAUT CHARLES CONRAD JR. will act as commander of Apollo 12 lunar trip which is due to begin at 11:22 a.m. EST Friday. Conrad is U.S. Navy Commander at present and served as a pilot on the Gemini 11 flight in 1966.

Astronauts Test Emergency Plans

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Apollo 12, man's first lunar landing, came within 14 seconds of being aborted last July as astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. hovered 150 feet above the surface, their fuel running dangerously low as they sought a smooth parking spot.

Gordon will be ready to fly a rescue mission if Conrad and Bean have to abort and cannot perform a successful rendezvous.

A five-man medical team examined Conrad, Gordon and Bean for 2½ hours Sunday and pronounced them physically fit.

Dr. Charles Berry, the astronauts' chief physician, reported: "The three crewmen are in good physical condition. They are in excellent spirits and eager to fly."

Routine Arrest Nets Top Suspect
DETROIT (AP) — Police say a routine arrest of a man driving what turned out to be a stolen car has also yielded them one of their "Five Most Wanted Men."

Arrested Saturday was a man police identified through fingerprints as Oscar L. Cooper, 26, Detroit. The man told policemen he was Donald J. Jackson, 20, Detroit.

Cooper was arraigned Sunday in Recorder's Court on the charge of first-degree murder in the death a year ago of Frank Tassoni, 50, a Detroit beer truck driver who was shot to death in a robbery.

At the launch pad, the countdown moved smoothly toward the scheduled blastoff of a Saturn 5 rocket at 11:22 a.m. EST Friday.

Conrad and Bean are to fly the landing craft they call Intrepid to a touchdown in the moon's Ocean of Storms Nov. 19. They can abort the attempt at any time after they separate from Gordon and the command ship until the moment of touchdown. They also can make a quick takeoff in case something goes wrong after the landing.

The two ships are to undock at an altitude of 46 miles. Intrepid is to land 2 hours and 27 minutes later. The most critical period is the last 18 minutes when the astronauts trigger their descent engine to drop the final 49,200 feet.

Nixon Backers, Foes Set Plans

Veterans Day Marks Opening Of Campaign

Supporters and opponents of President Nixon's Vietnam policy hold new demonstrations this week in the continuing controversy over the nation's involvement in the war.

A week of activities by groups backing the President will be highlighted by Veterans Day ceremonies Tuesday in Washington. The focus returns to the nation's capital Saturday when critics plan a massive antiwar march and rally.

As signs of support through the week for Nixon's Vietnam policies, administration backers called for participation in parades, burning of car headlights, waving flags and the wearing of buttons that say "I Love America."

"Tell It To Hanoi," "Operation Speakout," "Freedom Rally," "Honor America Week" and "National Confidence Week" are among the titles given the pro-administration demonstrations.

Activities by supporters and critics began early. A Veterans Day parade was held Saturday in Midland, Park, N.J., a town of 8,000 that has lost eight sons in Vietnam. Police estimated there were 8,000 marchers and 25,000 spectators.

Sponsors of the parade said they wanted to dramatize their support of the President's policies and opposition to antiwar demonstrators.

In Houston, Tex., a "march for peace" covered 36 blocks Sunday. Police estimated there were 900 marchers and put the

22 State Road Deaths Recorded
By The Associated Press
Twenty-two separate accidents claimed 22 lives in Michigan's weekend traffic.

Seven of the victims were pedestrians who were struck by vehicles. Six others were killed in automobiles which ran off roads and wrecked.

The Associated Press fatality count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday. None of the victims were from the Upper Peninsula.

Bandit Kills Dog In Detroit Holdup
DETROIT (AP)—One of two bandits shot a German shepherd dog to death Saturday night as the animal moved toward the gunman in a Detroit bar.

The bartender, Hans Christofferson, 70, told police the dog started for the bandit when the armed man leaped over the bar. The gunman shot twice, killing the dog. The bandits fled with about $70, Christofferson said.

Predictions Denied
Protest planners denied the predictions of violence. Dr. Benjamin Spock accused the administration of trying to frighten away demonstrators.

"It's perfectly clear that the talk of violence is all coming from the government," Spock said. "The government is trying in every way to intimidate people who are coming to protest against the war. President Nixon is desperately trying to make it appear the American people are behind him when in fact they are not."

Supreme Court Backing Police In Antiwar Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld today the power of university police to arrest students for displaying "disruptive" antiwar signs during silent protests of the Vietnam war.

The court took this step by refusing to review the conviction of Robert K. Zwicker, a student at the University of Wisconsin who held up a picture of a slain palmed boy outside a university placement office. The vote was 8 to 1.

Zwicker was sentenced in Dane County Circuit Court in 1967 to a fine of $100 or 30 days in jail. His appeal claimed the state's disorderly conduct law was too vague to be constitutional and that it had been used to suppress his freedom of speech.

The State Supreme Court approved both the conviction and the law in a split decision last February.

Prayers were one of several students who stood outside the placement office in February 1967 to protest interviews being held within by the Dow Chemical Co., a manufacturer of napalm.

University police told the students they could stage their demonstration but could not bring signs into the building.

Search For 28 Crewmen Ends
NEW YORK (AP) — The Coast Guard has ended the search for 28 missing crewmen of the Liberian tanker Kuo, which split in two in the Atlantic. Eight bodies were recovered.

The vessel reported last Wednesday that its crew of 32 Greeks and four South Americans had taken refuge in the stern section after the vessel broke up in raging seas 130 miles southeast of Nantucket.

The stern half was never found, but searchers did come across the abandoned bow half, leaking fuel oil, and an empty lifeboat.

The Kuo had been on route from New York to Belgium with a cargo of oil.

The Coast Guard announced it was ending the search for the 600-foot ship effective 4:30 p.m. Sunday, but it added that vessels passing through the sinking area be on the lookout for more bodies.

Increased Mead Wood Needs Expected To Aid Deer Of U.P.

Mead Corp.'s new Escanaba pulp mill wood needs are expected to have the greatest single impact by industry upon deer hunting in the Upper Peninsula in the history of the sport.

On the eve of the annual hunt which starts Saturday in Michigan, a forester of the Mead Corp. and a game biologist of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources sketched the meaning of Mead expansion plans at Escanaba in terms of future influence upon the forest and upon wildlife.

Mead has announced that its pulp mill wood needs from Upper Peninsula forests — state, federal, private and industrial — will go from the present 35,000 cords a year to a least 365,000 cords with construction of the new kraft pulp mill at its Escanaba Paper Co. Pulp Mill Center. Construction start is planned next year.

Wildlife Benefits
The planned enlargement of the Upper Peninsula wood market will make possible widespread timber harvest that will greatly favor wildlife, say the commentators. It will also bring large economic benefits, says Robert Schmeling, land manager of Mead's 370,000 acres of woodlands in the Upper Peninsula, since it will provide woods work for several hundred men. "The best thing that could happen to our deer herd is to have an assured timber harvest," said Joseph Vogt of Escanaba, district game biologist of the Department of Natural Resources. "And whenever we manipulate the habitat to favor the deer, we also benefit the ruffed grouse, snowshoe hare, woodcock and black bears. The increased wood harvest also will increase the number of trails and roads.

Vogt said the increased wood needs should help areas like the Escanaba River State Forest, where enough timber can't be sold to manage the forest fully and where winter deer yard problems are the most critical in the district.

Use DNR Men
"For the last several years we have used Department of Natural Resources men and equipment for limited cutting, but this is minimal and we are cutting specifically for the deer, mostly in off-logs and non-commercial stands of aspen and red maple, which we just cut and leave," Vogt said.

The Department feels that commercial logging operations are a much better way to supply food for deer than artificial feeding with grain and other foods, he added. The commercial cutting not only feeds wildlife immediately, but it opens the forest to regeneration of new stands that provide food within the reach of the deer.

"We will probably never see again the number of deer we had in the last 1940's and early 1950's, when you could see a hundred in one afternoon as the forests recovered from the big cuts and the big fires," Vogt said. "But we can manage for maximum production on our present range."

Mead Lands Open
Schmeling said that all Mead forest lands in the Upper Peninsula are open to hunting and that the company will be glad to work with government game managers on cutting practices to increase wildlife.

"The big benefit of Mead's increased wood procurement," said Schmeling, "is that it will provide a market that will continue the year around. Steady cutting and big volume cutting will be our big suit and we'll cut all over, so that we'll be hitting areas where food is most wanting for the deer because the timber is mature."

"The areas where the winter feed is are the areas where we'll be cutting in the winter and we'll be cutting in the winter and we'll be marketing the wood not suited to our needs," he continued.

Ensign 4-Hers Plan Annual Bake Sale

The Ensign 4-H Club sponsored a Halloween Carnival Thursday evening, Oct. 30 for the children of the area. Various games were played and lunch was served. Prizes were awarded to Peter Norlander, Andy Sigurdson and Martin Anderson.

The regular meeting of the club was held on Monday and a calendar of events for the year was presented and approved.

The annual Hunters' Sale will be held Nov. 14 with Maxine Constantino in charge. She will be assisted by Monica and Paul Flx, Janine Larson, Susan Sigurdson and Stanley Constantino.

Senate Rolls Up Sleeves For Education Plan Debate

LANSING (AP) — A suddenly rejuvenated Michigan Senate has turned its back on a four-day weekend to begin work on Gov. William G. Milliken's education reform legislation.

While the House waits and enjoys a weekend stretching through Veterans Day on Tuesday, the Senate meets at 9 o'clock tonight to begin floor debate on several tax measures aimed at financing Milliken's programs that have languished for a month in committee.

The rush to work comes after a week of strong political pressure on the Taxation Committee of Sen. Harry Demaso, R-Battle Creek.

Hunting Plan Noted
Capital observers note, however, that Michigan's annual deer hunting season begins Saturday. Senators, it is suspected, may want to head for the woods with as much of their work done as possible.

Release of four revenue bills from Demaso's committee triggered the Senate Appropriations Committee, under Chairman Charles O. Zoller, R-Benton Harbor, to report out Milliken's proposed state school aid bill for next year. It contained $55 million for parochial schools.

Zoller estimated his committee's recommendations would reduce the total 1970-71 school aid fund from the $1,085 billion that Milliken proposed to about $997.5 million.

Rolling Ahead
A ruling by the State Supreme Court on the constitutionality of parochial aid is to be asked by the committee.

By previous agreement, action on the aid bill and others in Milliken's package is to await the fate of the tax proposals.

One bill proposed by Milliken would take in an estimated $116 million through elimination of the property tax and rent credit against the state income tax. The other asks voters to adopt a 16-mille statewide property tax.

Against the wishes of Demaso, Democrats won committee approval of two bills that would revoke exemption of certain agricultural and industrial equipment from the four per cent state sales and use taxes.

Republicans Target
Demaso, who himself advocates eliminating numerous exemptions, criticized his GOP colleagues, Anthony Stamm, Education Committee Chairman, for casting the swing vote needed to report the bills out.

"They're going to clobber agriculture and clothe industry and pass the increase on to the consumer — this little man they're trying to protect," Demaso said.

Milliken's proposed five-cent increase in the seven-cent state cigarette tax has yet to win approval from the tax committee, but so did Demaso's own bills.

The House, meanwhile, will spend most of its time watching from the sidelines this week for the few days it's in session.

By an agreement worked out with Milliken, education legislation is being hammered out first in the Senate, allowing the governor to devote his attention and energies to one chamber.

Ryan "Sympathetic" "I'm sympathetic to his objectives," said House Speaker William A. Ryan, D-Detroit. He advocates concerted negotiations between House leaders and the governor once the bills pass the Senate.

To make time for those compromise talks, the House has proposed the deer hunting recess run through Dec. 1, although Senate reception to the idea has not been enthusiastic.

But Ryan points out that a similar delegation is expected to attend the National Conference of State Legislators late next week in Atlanta. Thanksgiving comes the following week.

"That's two weeks shot right there," Ryan said. "We'll come in and push the clock if the Senate wants us to, but I don't want to be preoccupied with too much floor action."

Bill To Be Reviewed
This week, the House will review a bill proposed by Rep. Ray Smith, R-Ann Arbor, to raise the current six-per-cent ceiling on municipal bonds.

Nixon Feeling Fine, Routine Check Reveals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon underwent a two hour physical examination at Bethesda Naval Hospital and described himself as being in fine condition.

"It was just a routine physical with a routine result," he told newsmen as he left the hospital in suburban Maryland.

Asked if he were in fine shape, he replied, "yes, yes didn't do any damage."

Nixon entered the hospital at 8:08 a.m. and left about 10 a.m.

It was Nixon's first complete physical since taking office.

On Sunday, the President's press secretary reported him in "good spirits and good health" and said he was taking the checkup in advance of a busy week.

The President returned to the White House late Sunday after a long weekend in Florida and the Bahamas. From all accounts, Nixon kept official business to a minimum during the holiday that began Thursday evening.

Three key Cabinet members — Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell — spent the weekend at a hotel near Nixon's waterfront bungalow in Key Biscayne, Fla.

The White House had announced in advance that they were on hand to confer with the chief executive on Vietnam and the Strategic Arms Limitation talks with the Soviets, which begin Nov. 17 in Helsinki. They did some conferring among themselves but did not meet with Nixon in Florida.

Science Shrinks Painful Hemorrhoids Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

Finds Way That Both Relieves Pain and Shrinks Piles in Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases, to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain. In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. The secret is Preparation H. There is no other formula for hemorrhoids like it. Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection in inflammation or suppuratory form.

Church Vestments Create Displays Work To Artists

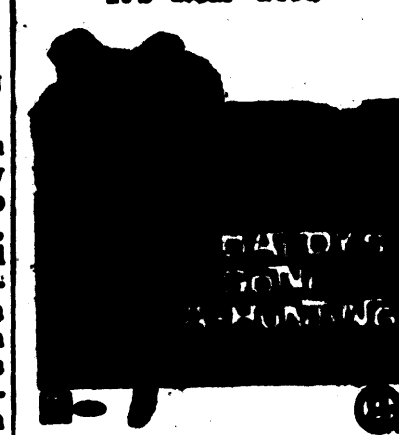

The Episcopal Art Association met Monday afternoon at the Methodist Church and enjoyed a display of church vestments made by Mrs. Smith Smith of Escanaba, and heard an explanation of the forms and uses of the vestments.

Both the classical coat-shaped chasubles and the popular shaped garments were shown, created from fine wools in a variety of materials, and in the colors of the church seasons. In a brief history of clerical garb Mrs. Smith explained that the classic cone shaped chasuble was used from the early days of the Christian church until after the Council of Trent, in 1545.

From that time until recently, the basic shape was changed to the scapular, which is straighter and more angular. This allowed for a more conspicuous and heavier ornament. It is the feeling of the church designers of today that the flowing, graceful bell shaped design, with its restrained ornamentation is in keeping with the contemporary architecture of the churches, Mrs. Smith said.

Four of the vestments shown were lent by Father Wayne Marcotte of Holy Name High School. The solemn set shown was from St. John's Abbey of Collegeville, Minn.

Secretary Of State Moonlights On Side

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Secretary of State Lud Kramer is moonlighting as a gas station attendant to pay off the debts of his unsuccessful campaign for mayor of Seattle.

He is also available for other part-time work, such as washing dishes in a restaurant.

Kramer said his bid for the office of mayor left him with $10,000 in debts. He ran third in the primary last month and was eliminated from the race.

"My supporters were wonderful in trying to collect funds, but there was only so much to be had," Kramer said. "No one wants to give much money, once you are a loser. I have no one to blame but myself."

The secretary of state, 38, said he plans to maintain his normal 10-hour day and five-day week in his state office and to work another 50 hours a week in part-time jobs. He took on his gas station chore last Friday.

Kramer said he thinks he can get along on about five hours of sleep a night until he has paid off his creditors.

"It's no worse than the schedule I've been following along the banquet and speaking trail," he commented.

Kramer, a Republican, said his $15,000 salary as secretary of state provides support for his wife and four children.

Possible Plane Hijack Foiled

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A man, reported to have attempted to hijack a Chicago-bound Delta Airlines plane at the Greater Cincinnati Airport, was taken into custody today before the plane ever got off the ground.

A spokesman at the airport said the man apparently picked up a young girl in the lobby and, in some manner, got her on the plane.

"The man is in custody and the girl is safe," the airport reported.

The plane, Flight 670, was to have left here at 8:55 a.m. but the pilot reported the hijack attempt a few minutes before take off.

He said the man was holding a knife at a girl's throat and said he wanted to go to Italy.

GETTING UP NIGHTS MAKES MANY

Common Kidney or Bladder Irritation makes many men and women feel tense and nervous from frequent urinating or feeling urination right after sleeping. You may even wake up with a sore back, aches and pains, and a general feeling of uneasiness. This is usually a sign of a urinary tract infection, which can be cured by taking a course of antibiotics. ## 'Tag Days' To Aid Veterans

Veterans of World War I Barracks 118 and Auxiliary, on behalf of World War I veterans and their families, are sponsoring "Apple Tag Days" to be held in Delta County on Wednesday and Thursday this week.

Commander Roy Cartwright of the local Barracks, said that the tag days this week are scheduled to follow Veterans Day, which is being observed here and throughout the nation tomorrow.

"This is the third annual Apple Tag Days drive and we are confident the public will support our efforts to help the boys of 1917 and 1918, who helped our nation then and who need our help now," said Commander Cartwright.

The funds derived from the drive will be used to benefit World War I veterans, their widows, men in hospitals, house-bound veterans, and those in need of assistance. There are approximately 60,000 World War I veterans in Michigan.

The apple was selected as the symbol of the campaign because it signified the problems of many veterans of World War I, who in the depression years sold apples on street corners to support themselves and their families.

Selfridge Field Not Closing, Says Base Commander

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — The Air Force and the Defense Department have put a damper on hopes of Macomb County officials for converting Selfridge Air Force Base into a commercial airport.

Col. Harold Lund, commander of the air base near Mount Clemens, told a public meeting group that "these reports that we're closing the base down are completely false. We're moving three units out—that's all. Selfridge will wind up like it always was."

William J. Sheehan, assistant to the director of economic adjustment in the Defense Department, said, "I would say that their plan for either taking over or sharing the air facility with the Air Force is extremely premature."

The meeting was called by Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., after county officials indicated hopes for commercial use of the big base.

The Defense Department announced Oct. 27 a $19 million-a-year cutback in Selfridge operations as part of a national $3 billion economy program.

$12,000 Nickel Haul Reported

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Police say thieves carted off nickel valued at from $10,000 to $12,000 during the night from a Grand Rapids manufacturing firm.

The nickel—1,800 pounds in 10 baskets—was to be used for plating hardware items manufactured by the Doshier-Jarvis company.

She will be buried in the family lot in Waite Park, Minn.

Car Plate Sales Opens Saturday

New 1970 passenger car license plates go on sale Nov. 19 in Michigan... but everybody will not be able to get them on that date.

Nov. 15 falls on a Saturday this year, and Secretary of State James M. Hare said individual branch offices will make a determination of whether they will be open on that date to sell plates to "early-bird" buyers.

In Escanaba the branch office for the sale of auto plates at 615 Ludington St. will be open on Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon. It will not be open in the afternoon on Saturday.

"Most fee branches which are normally open Saturdays will be open to sell plates Nov. 15," he noted, but he added that some may close because it is the first day of the deer hunting season in the state.

Hare reminded all Michigan vehicle owners that it is necessary to have their titles when purchasing plates. This is in addition to a signed, prepaid or filled out application, proof of liability insurance, and cash enough to purchase the plates.

The Secretary of State also reiterated his edict of the past several years that plates are to be sold on a "first-come, first-serve" basis.

Dust Control

In the past six months or so, the Escanaba area has been embroiled in controversy over air pollution. The Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air was formed, there has been national newspaper and television publicity, local meetings. The Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission, the state body charged with the enforcement of state air pollution control statutes, even came to Escanaba for a meeting last month. And, of course, the County Board of Supervisors has before it an ordinance drafted by the Save Our Air group which, if adopted, would provide local rules on top of the state standards.

There isn't much question that The Mead Corp. by announcing plans to construct a kraft process pulp mill at its Escanaba publishing papers center along the Escanaba River triggered the local concern. Pulp mills using the same process in other areas have contributed odor problems to the population.

But the pulp mill, while it may have been at the root of the problem, is not now the only concern. The Chicago & North Western Railway Co. ore terminal in Escanaba was cited by the Save Our Air group and others to the Air Pollution Control Commission and it might logically be expected that other industries in the area who are contributing to the total air pollution problem will be placed on notice.

Basically, two situations are involved—the case of the expanding industry (Mead Corp., for example) which expects an air pollution possibility and incorporates financing and design for controls into its planning and the case of a polluting industry (C&NW, for example) which has a problem and must take steps to abate it.

And, from a layman's point of view, the first approach appears to be infinitely better than the second, both from an industry standpoint and for the public, which wouldn't be subjected to discomfort if controls were installed in the first place.

In almost any process which is a source of air pollution — whether it be smoke, odor or dust — institution of controls after the process is operational has to be monumentally more difficult and costly than incorporating controls in the initial design. Certainly, the installation of control equipment would be easier at the time of construction than later when equipment probably would need expensive modifications.

This is what is disturbing about the ore terminal, which started operation earlier this year and is a new facility.

Two conclusions are possible: 1. that Chicago & North Western Railroad Co. officials were aware that the terminal would generate a dust problem and because of the expense involved or the design modifications necessary to include controls elected not to have them installed, or 2. that C&NW officials did not believe there would be a dust of the magnitude currently being generated and considered special controls unnecessary.

From the standpoint of the public — and the City Council of Escanaba which assisted through municipal bonding in the financing of the project — it can only be hoped that the second conclusion is correct.

A member of the Michigan Dept. of Public Health who was in Escanaba with the Air Pollution Control Commission said the C&NW was not issued a permit to construct the facility as Mead Corp. now will need for its pulp mill, because, perhaps, the planning for the terminal predated state standards or, perhaps, no problem was indicated.

But if the railroad knew of the problem, or certainly the possibility of a problem, before the terminal was constructed and failed to inform the people of Escanaba, the City Council and the State of Michigan before the terminal was started then it is guilty of a fraud on the community, which apparently was unsuspecting of the likelihood, or even possibility, of a dust problem before it approved financing for the project then it also was guilty of violating public trust when it agreed to the financing plan.

What is done, however, is done. The terminal is built and is operating and whether or not the dust problem was anticipated or unexpected no longer matters.

Railroad officials have indicated they are concerned about the problem and are working on a solution. They should receive every cooperation — and impetus if needed — from the City Council, Board of Supervisors and State of Michigan to resolve the situation as quickly as possible.

Peninsula Potpourri

Ontonagon High School boys working under the direction of Raymond Londo, vocational building trades instructor, have completed construction of a changehouse and chalet near the Ontonagon skating rink. The building, which will be electrically heated, cost about $2,500. The floor area is divided into three units.

A fire in a locker in one of the corridors of Hancock High School is being investigated by Houghton County Prosecutor Sterling W. Schrock. Hancock police and the state fire marshal from Marquette. Bus students arriving at the school discovered the blaze and stamped it out. A notebook and some textbooks in the locker were damaged.

Two veteran employees of the Iron Mountain Veterans Administration Hospital — Eino Wepala and Elio S. Nissen — have retired from federal government service. Wepala, assistant chief of medical administration, has been in service since 1939, when he began work at the Veterans Bureau in Washington, D.C. Nissen, who had been in federal work since 1941, was employed as a secretary in the Army Corps of Engineers during the construction of the V.A. hospital. He was employed at the Iron Mountain hospital since February, 1960.

Intermediate Officials Oppose Own Cutback

By JEAN WORTH
 Of PAMAX Newspapers

Gov. William Milliken's Commission on Educational Reform has suggested changes in the state's educational establishment including doing away with the intermediate school districts and it is apt to be a lively issue as the Upper Peninsula examines the proposals. The U. P. insists that it is a special case and deserves special treatment and Lansing agrees but insists that it needs some guidance, that the U. P. lacks strong citizen leadership in educational matters and is likely to follow the leadership of its school establishment.

The school establishment (the professional educators) are apt to be for continuing the intermediate school districts in the Upper Peninsula. Their leaders are organized in the U. P. Intermediate School District Superintendents Association and in October it went on record in favor of continuing the present concept of intermediate school districts, with possible enlargement in scope or duties in some areas.

Six or Seven? The superintendents also spoke for six intermediate districts in the U. P., or the equivalent one district with six satellite organizations doing the same things that the intermediate districts are doing now.

(Memorandum is at present the only one-county intermediate district in the U. P., and the superintendents see it looking onto the neighboring Delta-Schoolcraft, or Dickinson-Iron Intermediate Districts as a natural evolution.)

The intermediate school districts evolved out of Michigan's changing structure of school districting. They are the direct heir of the old county school commissioners, or county school superintendents' office, which served the little local school districts without a superintendent and which had some countywide duties like conducting the school census.

Duties Shrivelled With school district consolidation, the county school superintendents' duties shrivelled to a point where he suffered the Upper Peninsula's reported chronic problem of underemployment. He conducted the school student headcount and tried to appear busy.

And then the Legislature in 1960 created the intermediate school districts and redefined the duties of the expiring county school superintendents and put them (in most cases) into districts embracing several counties.

In the Upper Peninsula the intermediate districts created by this process were: Eastern U. P. consisting of Chippewa, Mackinac and Luce counties; Delta-Schoolcraft; Marquette-Alger; Iron-Dickinson; Copper Country, consisting of Benzie, Houghton and Keweenaw counties; Gogebic - Ontonagon, and Menominee.

Millage Voted The greatest way in which the U. P.'s intermediate districts supplement its 75 local school districts is in special education. Every U. P. intermediate district has special voted millage but this is the smaller part of its income, which comes mostly not from the district property tax, but from state and federal funds, mostly devoted to this major interest of special education, which means special aid to school children who are either physically or mentally handicapped.

The local school districts are eligible for the aids administered by the intermediate district, says Supt. Walter J. McClintock of the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate District, and in most instances the intermediate district cooperates with the local districts which present the programs and does not sponsor them itself.

Handicapped Programs The physically or mentally handicapped child has always been a concern of all school districts, but practically not much was done for them in some districts. They were the exceptions, the troubled, the handicapped, and the schools were often hard-put to instruct those without handicaps. The handicapped were not large in numbers, compared with the "normal" students, so it was difficult to organize special treatment for them. This could be done best by larger organization which gathered more of them together for the special education designed to help them.

This situation helped enlarge the activities of the intermediate districts.

And there was also the state and national trend toward larger school district organization which favored the growth of the intermediate districts. They seemed to inherit the state's special blessing as its agencies for the administration of state programs.

Districts Flourished

They flourished. Hagie Quarnstrom, the last Delta County school superintendent, had a modest establishment. The Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate District now headed by McClintock has blossomed. Its 1960-61 general fund budget was $25,248 (of which $13,748 was from local property taxes) and for 1960-70 it is $41,615. The special education budget for 1960-70 sets up spending of $351,575 and projects a balance of $75,000.

It has a staff of 13 professionals, plus clerical workers. Included are the superintendent, a director of special education, and a coordinator, therapist and teacher counselor in speech and hearing; two consultants, and two teachers of the trainable in mental retardation; a psychologist and three social workers in pupil personnel services.

Serve 900 Students

There is no comparable staffing in the 10 local districts in the two counties (10 in Delta) of the Intermediate District which has 13,000 students in public and private schools. Of this number 900 are being served in the special education program this year (physically handicapped, retarded, speech deficiencies, deaf and hard of hearing, blind and partially seeing, diagnosis of psychological maladjustments, etc.) and the total number of students estimated to need special education totals 1,400.

The means for special education in Delta-Schoolcraft have never been as large nor has the program to meet these needs.

But after its statewide survey of Michigan's educational establishment the Governor's Commission on Education Reform stated: "Intermediate school districts evolved from the old county boards of education. At one time they served a useful purpose and within present limitations and under great handicaps, have tried effectively to respond to current educational needs. No Future Role?"

"Too confined to take advantage of many advances in modern technology, which require large populations to achieve economies of scale, the intermediate districts, in most cases, are a largely ineffective part of our educational structure."

"Lacking well-defined goals, adequate financing, or vital administration, most intermediate districts play no important role in educating our children. The future holds no meaningful place for them in their present form."

Mrs. Katherine G. Heideman, superintendent of the Copper Country Intermediate School District, replied for the U. P. superintendents: "The Upper Peninsula should be divided into six intermediate districts, not one (as proposed by the Educational Reform Commission.) One district for the U. P. is unworkable, unrealistic, actually unbelievable. . . . It would cause a deterioration of education for our children in the U. P."

33-Member Board? "The regional board of education as outlined for the U. P. would be composed of 33 persons. Even after reorganization (and elimination of K-8 school districts) the number of persons (representing local boards) would still be approximately 33. How can such a board function?"

"Many of the programs outlined for the region are already being carried out in the U. P. — special education, adult education, community schools, inservice workshops."

"Transportation could not be administered effectively from one office in the U. P. The miles school buses drive in the U. P. throughout one year are staggering in the millions."

"What you are doing in the U. P. regional plan is setting up a costly bureaucracy which we don't need and that won't work."

"House Bill 3141 which reduces the number of intermediate districts in the state from 60 to 30-35 has been approved unanimously by the Intermediate Superintendents Association. It is enough of an adjustment to make at this time. Under this plan the U. P. could have six districts. . . . Education on the intermediate level does not deserve the unkind words written about intermediate districts. Perhaps there should be separate guidelines for the Upper Peninsula and the Lower Peninsula."

Prison Cozy

SPARKS, Nev. (AP) — There are no bars on the windows of the new city jail to be opened in March.

"Because a person commits a crime doesn't mean he shouldn't be treated as a human being," Police Chief Robert Goff said Friday of the jail with brightly painted blue cells.

The glass windows however, are a quarter-inch thick and of a type considered indestructible, he said.

The bidding:
 East South West North
 Pass 1 ♠ 1 ♠ Pass
 2 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass
 Pass 3 ♠

Opening lead—six of spades. An interesting point of bidding is raised in this hand played in the Sweden-U. S. match in 1963.

When Wohlin and Larsen held the North-South cards for Sweden, the bidding went as shown. Larsen got no further than three hearts, making four, and could also have made three no-trump.

Undoubtedly, Larsen's unenterprising bid of two hearts was the root of the trouble. True, he made amends to some extent by later bidding three hearts, but this sequence was still not strong enough to excite Wohlin into bidding a game.

Larsen undoubtedly thought there was little chance for game after East-West had both intervened, but he should nonetheless have exhausted every possibility there was by making a stronger bid than two hearts.

Thus, he could have jumped to three hearts and Wohlin would surely have bid three no-trump to score the vulnerable game.

When Ted Lightner, New York expert, playing with this writer, held the South hand, the bidding went:

East South West North
 Pass 1 ♠ 1 ♠ Pass
 2 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass 3 NT

Lightner's two no-trump bid was surely unusual, since he did not rebid his powerful hearts, but he was much more concerned with representing the game-going potential of his hand than he was with spelling out its details.

From his view a nine-trick no-trump game seemed much closer than a game in hearts, and he therefore showed the flexibility of his hand by suggesting no-trump after having bid hearts earlier. At the same time, Lightner did not exclude the possibility of a heart contract if I had heart support and distributional values.

Holding the North cards, it was automatic for me to raise to three no-trump, and this was easily made. Three no-trump turned out to be the superior contract, since four hearts would have gone down if West had had a singleton club.

MUSKOGEE (AP) — General Telephone Co. officials say they plan to spend $5.7 million next year to improve service in western Michigan.

More than $2.5 million will be spent to improve local and long distance service through major additions to company installations. The program calls for spending about $75 for each of the 31,400 telephone General serves in western Michigan.

Ann Landers Block Mother Plan Good For Youngsters

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to add my words of praise for the kind woman who let those three teenage girls into her home when they pounded on her door, frightened to death by a deranged man who exposed himself.

These days it takes courage to open one's door — to anybody. We, in Emporia, Kansas hit on a solution to the problem. Perhaps you'd like to pass it on to your readers in other cities. We have implemented a plan to help children who might run into trouble on the way to and from school. It is the Block Mother system. These women are selected by the home room teachers from kindergarten through grade 12. The mothers have placards in the front window — one on every block. The children are instructed to go to these homes if they run into trouble.

If you use this letter, Ann, please don't credit me — give the credit to the Emporia Board of Education. — Mrs. L.

Dear Mrs. L.: It's hard to believe that in America we need shelter stations where kids on their way to and from school can run when they need protection. But it's one of the tragic realities of our time and we must face it. My thanks to you for writing and a garland of roses to the Emporia, Kansas Board of Education.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 38-year-old bachelor of average looks and personality. I have an average position and I live in an average apartment. My problem is women.

I am taking out five different ones at present. They all have the same goal in mind — marriage. These are not silly, frivolous girls. They are between 32 and 45 years of age. I am happy in my present state and have no desire to settle down. I might reconsider one day, but for the time being I want no ties.

In case you think I am imagining things, I'd like to give you a few sample sentences. Miss A said to me after two dates, "You'll be 40 in two years — and that's no kid anymore. You need to settle down. I'm willing to give up my freedom and marry you." Mrs. B. (a widow) said after four dates, "If we were married, our combined incomes would enable both of us to live a lot better than either of us is living now. How about it?" Miss C. (a career girl) said after two theater dates and one concert: "I am not a loose woman, but I would consider going to bed with you if you told me you had marriage in mind."

I hate to come right out and say, "I am not interested in marriage." I said that once and the woman bawled for two hours. Please tell me how to make my position clear without hurting anybody's feelings. — No Strings Monroe

Dear No Strings: Any guy who can juggle five women at a time and has managed to avoid foreign entanglements for 38 years doesn't need any advice from me.

Carolyn Williams

(Editor's Note: No smog problem from the proposed pulp mill is anticipated. The Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air and others are concerned, however, about the possibility of an odor problem from the pulp mill.)

Ann Landers: The Monroe Doctrine, as you phrase it, seems to be extremely effective.

Dear Ann Landers: My cousin, with whom I have never been very close, is dating a man I know has served time for armed robbery. He has been married twice and has a 12-year-old son.

I cannot believe my cousin knows of his past. She is a fine person, but very naive. Shall I tell her, or would it be better to mention it to her family? — Concerned Not

Dear Concerned: Are you absolutely certain of your facts? If so, ask your cousin if she is aware of her friend's history. If she is, offer no comment. Merely say, "I just wanted to make sure you knew." Do not tell her family.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with — but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. © Publishers-Bell Syndicate

TEEN CONCERN

The problem of the sulfate mill (Editor's note — The kraft process pulp mill planned by Mead Corp. for the Escanaba Paper Co.) is not only a problem for adults, but also for the teenagers of the community.

I feel, among many others, that we should be proud of the fact that we have the cleanest air in the United States. People from all over the country come to visit the Escanaba area because of the beauty and cleanliness of the air.

If you ever stopped to really think about it, we could lose money in this project because people from the larger cities aren't going to want to visit an area with as much smog as they have. As long as money hasn't been spent on this yet, why stop it and find out if it is worth it. Therefore, we should for this sulfate mill, I feel, is sensible.

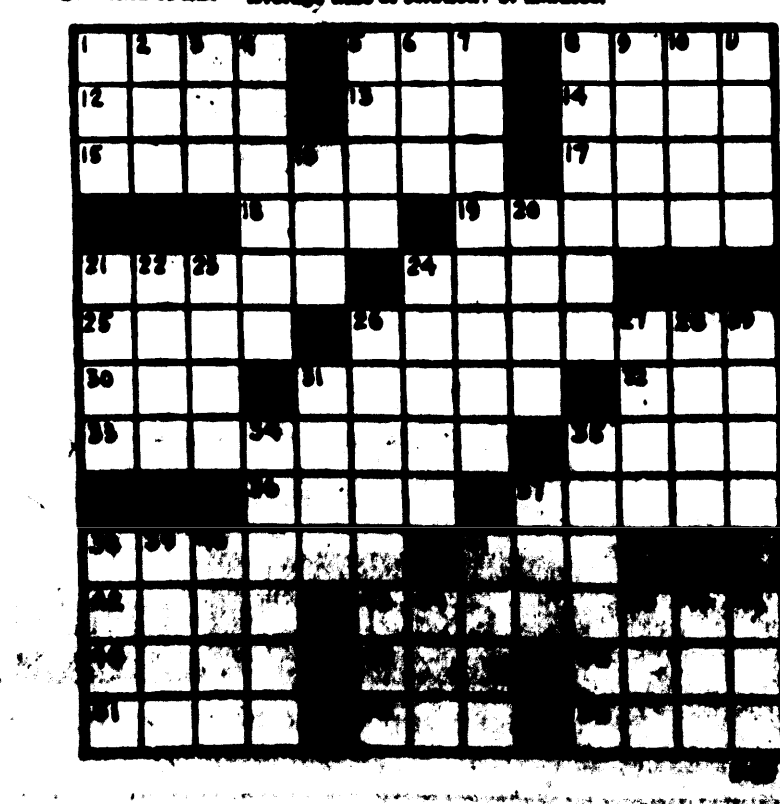

Do you want to live in an area with polluted air? Your answer will probably be "No." Then let's do something about this problem now.

Carolyn Williams
 1618 Babette Ave.,
 Gladstone

(Editor's Note: No smog problem from the proposed pulp mill is anticipated. The Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air and others are concerned, however, about the possibility of an odor problem from the pulp mill.)

Grape Boycott?

DETROIT (AP) — Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., says plans are being formulated for a drive to halt the sale of California table grapes in all stores in the state's 1st Congressional District. Conyers said preliminary plans call for groups backing the grape boycott to contact store owners and convince them to stop selling the grapes.

Housing Project

PORT HURON (AP) — The St. Clair County Interfaith Housing Corp. will present to the Port Huron Planning Commission Wednesday plans for a 40-unit, low-income housing project in Port Huron.
The group says the Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority has approved a $105,300 loan for preliminary plans for the project.

Robber Slain

DETROIT (AP) — Arthur Howard, 22, Detroit was fatally shot Saturday while allegedly attempting to rob a check cashing service on Detroit's west side. Police said Howard pulled a gun on the owner, Charles Stein, 39, and the two exchanged shots. Howard was killed and Stein was wounded in the left shoulder.

Tuition Hiked

HOLLAND (AP) — Hope College plans to increase its fees for tuition, room and board next year.
College officials said tuition will be increased $200 to $1,650 while room rates will rise $20 to $300 and meal charges will be hiked $30 to $530. Students pay about 75 per cent of the school's operating costs.

UAW Eyes $500 Month Pension After 30 Years

DETROIT (AP) — A group within the United Auto Workers kicked off a campaign over the weekend to make the union's No. 1 demand in 1970 new contract bargaining a $500 monthly pension after 30 years service, regardless of age.

Current three-year contracts covering more than 700,000 workers in General Motors, Ford and Chrysler plants run out next Sept. 14.

A "30 And Out" rally Sunday attracted approximately 1,000 persons, many of them local union presidents and delegates who attended a special Saturday convention which increased strike benefits $10 weekly across the board.

Jack Wagner, elected campaign chairman, said many more would have attended the rally had the convention not been compressed into a single day. It originally was to have met both Saturday and Sunday.

Wagner is president of the big UAW Buick local at Flint, Mich., and the turnout was sufficiently large to attract UAW President Walter P. Reuther, who told cheering members the leadership "will fight for any program the rank and file wants it to fight for."

Reuther carefully avoided endorsing "30 And Out," however, telling the rally that new contract goals will be left to a convention scheduled for Atlantic City next April.

He added, however, he was "sympathetic toward putting early retirement at a more adequate level on our (bargaining) agenda."

Wagner said "30 And Out" advocates also want to tie the proposed $500 monthly pension to the cost of living index, moving up with it, but never falling below $500.

Under current contracts with the Big Three it is possible for a worker with 30 years service to retire at age 60 with a $400 monthly pension. But a portion of this cuts out when his Social Security cuts in at age 65.

Nader Asking Highway Safety Test Release

WASHINGTON (AP) — Safety crusader Ralph Nader, citing instances of seat belt, brake fluid and tire failures, Sunday urged Secretary of Transportation John Volpe to release quickly the results of National Highway Safety Bureau compliance program tests.

In a letter to Volpe, Nader said "when vehicle defects are discovered that violate standards under the compliance program, time becomes of the essence to notify motorists who are driving these vehicles."

"Otherwise," Nader said, "avoidable casualties will occur and the manufacturers will continue to produce or sell existing vehicles with these defects."

Nader noted Volpe's decision last month to release test results, but said "it is most discouraging to learn that long existing reports will emerge in the next few weeks piecemeal and with less than full disclosure."

To date, Nader said, about a fourth of nearly 4,000 tests on seat belt assemblies have failed to meet one or more sections of the Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard.

Brake fluids manufactured by General Motors, Ford and Chrysler have failed safety standards, he said, and a "shocking number" of tire failures have been reported.

But none of these reports was released to the public, Nader said.

Nader called on Volpe to push for tougher standards.

Consumers, Producers Far Apart On Issues

By JOHN CUNNEEN
NEW YORK (AP) — After a decade of rising friction between consumers and producers, many of the issues seem to remain unresolved. Inflation has grown deeper and more painful, and many scars have appeared.

Instead of being quieted, consumer complaints seem to have grown louder. And where once the shouts seemed to fall on plugged ears, even whispered complaints now seem to be picked up in Washington. It's good politics.

20 Bills Approved
In the past five years more than 20 important consumer bills have been passed by Congress, including laws on automobile safety, packaging and credit. And more than 100 bills are in the Congressional hopper.

At the White House there is more action. The President has proposed a permanent consumer office there. And he seeks also a new division of consumer protection at the Justice Department.

Friction Noted
In fact, the evidence seems to add up to a defeat for business in its quest to handle the problem in its own way. Self-regulation does not appear to be winning in the battle to please the consumer.

One of the major reasons for the friction, ironically, is the growing financial well being of Americans, who once bought to satisfy needs but who now have the funds with which to be choosy. They are discretionary spenders.

This affluence is directly tied to the output of America's enormous production machinery, which puts so many complex products on the market that it has become almost impossible to choose either wisely or easily.

In the typical large supermarket, for example, there are 8,000 items of varying sizes and shapes to choose from. And this number already has been narrowed from a total of 40,000 items available from the warehouse.

Products Varied
These products also are constantly being varied, presumably improved. New items become complex; recent purchases become old-fashioned. By the time a buyer familiarizes himself with a product, the formula is changed.

Many stores have improved their customer complaint departments. And factories have improved their quality control in some instances. But still the friction exists.

In an effort to provide much more information about products, some stores are experimenting this Christmas season with large printed tags that anticipate questions. If successful, it still will be only part of the answer.

Business Learns Well
Business has, however, learned well the formula for moving products. The marketing and advertising of goods has become very sophisticated, with subtle psychology wedded to hard selling. Perhaps as a result, some consumers have the feeling of being manipulated.

A perusal of corporate speeches suggests that maybe business was late in recognizing the consumer movement for what it was, not simply the grating of some cynical people but the result of more basic frustrations in a rich, complex, material and impersonal age.

Attitude Changes
Some corporate speeches of the early 1960s give the impression that the authors suspected something un-American was afoot. In more recent addresses the attitude is expressed that, for America's good, the problem must be corrected.

The answer, as any businessman will concede, is elusive and mysterious. It seems to be in better human relations, but often the attempts to correct the situation result only in a still more impersonal machinery.

Meanwhile, in the apparent absence of effective methods for correcting the problems or handling the complaints, the American consumer made wealthy but angered by a free market sends his demands to Washington for more regulation.

Physical Fitness Plan Keeps 'Giant' In Sweat

By ROBERT R. SEDMAN
CHICAGO (AP) — Like many men around the country, I'm overweight. My wife recently decided to take some action about this, so now I'm attending physical fitness classes.

What goes on at those classes is enough to make a man cry—even a man who's 6-6 and weighs 270.

Attendance varies from class to class, but no matter how many show up, my prejudiced view is that one-half of them don't need the workout and the other half, including me, are beyond all human help.

Those who will risk life and limb for these twice-a-week 45-minute sessions begin gathering in the gym up to 15 minutes before the session starts. Most of us stand silently, perhaps praying inwardly that we can make it through the coming torture session. Others stand in small groups, talking quietly.

Then comes our instructor—youthful, athletic, well-built, a perpetual smile highlighting pearly white teeth. And he starts to run, and run, and run, smiling and joking all the way and never working up a sweat, which absolutely disgusts me.

Now the exercises begin, wave after wave of jumping jacks, pushups, situps, squat thrusts, isometrics, jogging. The heart pounds, the breath comes in gasps and my perpetual question is, "Why can't I become thin overnight?"

Some 45 minutes after the session starts, it comes to a merciful halt. I'm exhausted, gasping for breath, soaking with sweat, and what's left of my hair is going in every imaginable direction.

I sit on the floor and catch my breath and say to myself that in just a few days, I'll do it again. Then I say I should get a mental examination if I do it again. Then I think of my wife and rationalize the 45-minute sessions are easier than facing her ire.

And, as I'm sitting there, a quivering mass of exhausted humanity, every muscle screaming in torture, my instructor starts to get a volley ball game under way.

Volley ball after 45 minutes of this stuff? Good grief, man, you must be crazy. There's a ball game on television and if I hurry, I can shower, dress, drive home and collapse in front of the screen, with a tall, iced (diet) drink in my hand.

That's living.

But that 45-minute session isn't.

Higher Strike Benefits Next Target Of UAW

DETROIT (AP) — Higher strike benefits became effective today for striking United Auto Workers and UAW members who walk out in the future.

The boost is $10 a week across the board, and it immediately benefits 11,000 on strike against American Motors Corp., 7,000 out at General Electric Co. plants and 2,300 striking at a General Motors Fisher Body plant in Flint.

The new weekly scale is $30 for a single worker; $35 for a worker with a wife only, and $40 for a worker with a family.

The increase was voted by a special weekend UAW convention in Detroit, with 2,894 delegates deciding to give it immediate effect. Originally the UAW leadership had recommended next Jan. 4 as the effective date.

Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, estimated the cost to the union for a worker on strike would average $40.77 weekly. He said the average monetary benefit would be $36.50 weekly and that union payment of health and life insurance premiums would add $13.27 weekly per worker.

Mazey estimated the UAW's strike fund will reach $122.9 million by the time the union opens new contract negotiations in mid-1970 with the Big Three automakers — General Motors, Ford and Chrysler. It had a balance of $66.5 million on last Sept. 30, he said.

Health Group Seeks National Policy Hold

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Leaders of the American Public Health Association, with a stop at the American Medical Association, have launched a bid for their group to assume a major role as spokesmen for national health policy.

The leaders of the 24,000-member organization of public health workers say the APHA should develop a leading voice in the establishment of the nation's health policies, "not for the narrow professional interests of anybody, but rather for the public interest."

The APHA's 127-member governing council will vote during its 57th annual meeting here on several resolutions designed to change the organization's traditional role as an adviser to health agencies to that of an "activist for social change."

Association officers indicate they expect the resolutions to pass.

If they are passed, and if the association develops the national voice speaking for the individual consumer that its leaders seek, the APHA will, medical people here say, be a clear rival to the AMA.

"Health conditions in this country are really in bad shape," said Dr. Paul B. Corneily, association president-elect and a professor of preventive medicine at Howard University College of Medicine.

Dr. Corneily and Dr. Lester Breslow, association president from the University of California School of Public Health, both said at a news conference Sunday that the APHA has failed to meet the health needs of the American people. The two men are not members of the AMA.

"The AMA," Dr. Corneily said, "in the past has come out with approaches that were not to our liking... at their last meeting, for the first time, they became concerned about the poor."

"If they want to do something about the poor, and come up with plans that are acceptable to us, we'll be willing to join hands. But if they come up with something we oppose, we'll be critical of them."

The doctors said one of their major efforts will be to join with individual Americans who are the health consumers, often the poor. They said they hope to work with health organizations in the ghetto and rural areas.

Shoplifters
NEW YORK (AP) — Of 283 customers secretly followed in a large Manhattan department store, one out of ten, or a total of 27, stole something, reports a study by Saul D. Adler consultants.

The study, which did not name the store, also said not one of the 27 shoplifters was caught. The average value of the stolen goods was $5.37.

Peggy Sue Townsend, Thomas Kriekard Wed

Peggy Sue Townsend of Escanaba and Thomas E. Kriekard of Chicago exchanged wedding vows during a 7 p.m. candlelight ceremony performed Saturday, Nov. 8 at the Calvary Baptist Church in Escanaba.

The Rev. Ronald MacDonald officiated at the double ring nuptials. Soloist for the service was Diane Coplan and organist was Mrs. Pearl St. Clair. A vocal selection, "When Thou Goest," was also sung by the bridegroom during the service. Bouquets of mums in fall shades adorned the church altar for the wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Townsend, 1619 17th Ave. S. and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Kriekard, Sand Point Rd., Muskegon.

Maid of honor was Laurie Saxe and bridesmaids were Jean Killmer and Debbie Van-Ertan, all of Escanaba.

Mess Green
They were attired in floor length gowns of moss green nylon corded organza styled with high rise bodices and mandarin collars and they carried bouquets of mums and pompons in fall shades.

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length gown of white Cantilly lace fashioned with a Sabrina neckline, long tapered sleeves and a bouffant tiered skirt which formed a cathedral train. Pearl and crystal trim adorned the bodice of the gown.

Queen's Crews
A pearl and crystal queen's crown held her triple veiled elbow length illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and yellow roses. Crystal and pearl earrings and necklace were her only jewelry.

Serving as bestman for his brother was John Kriekard of New Jersey and groomsmen were Daniel Kriekard of Kalamazoo and James Budd of Milwaukee. Seating the guests were Robert Townsend, Peter Townsend and David Townsend, all brothers of the bride. Karen Townsend, sister of the bride, was the flower girl and

Local DAV Officers Attend Marquette Meet

Local Department officers were invited guests at open meetings Saturday evening of Marquette Chapter 22, DAV and Auxiliary.

A social evening was enjoyed and members were present from L'Anse, 76, Muskegon, 69, Iron Mountain, 23 and Escanaba, 24.

Officers attending from Escanaba included Administration Board member Bernard Larson and Mrs. Larson; Second Junior Vice Commander Raymond DeLoughery and Mrs. DeLoughery; Zone 4 Membership Chairman William Garbett and Mrs. Garbett and Auxiliary Chairman, Mrs. Nettie Seid.

Lunch and refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

LEARN TO READ
OLDHAM, England (AP)—Five-year-olds in the tiny village of Denham, near here, surprise their parents by being able to read after only three months at the local school.

The staff at the 145-year-old village school, headmaster Michael Woods and teacher Mrs. Renee Bewick, who takes the five to seven-year-olds, say the secret of success is the small number of pupils, 26 for the whole school.

"It means I can give each child individual attention," says Mrs. Bewick. "Each child can progress at his own rate."

Dear Heloise:

If you are interested in slide photography, here's a simple, inexpensive way to make slide titles.

When you sort your slides, there are probably a couple that didn't come out too well. (They're out of focus, too dark, etc.)

Don't throw these out.

Instead, place a few drops of bleach on the picture itself. Rub around with a cotton swab to get well into the corners. Then wipe away the bleach and repeat the application a few times and follow with a thorough wiping with a damp cloth to remove all traces of bleach.

Result? A crystal clear plastic on which you can print your title.

I sometimes type my title and then trace it onto the clear plastic slide.

This is a shiny surface and a little difficult to write on, but I have found that the new nylon-point ink markers work very well.

Jo-Jo

Dear Heloise:

I have a good idea for the fishermen or fisherwomen, as the case may be, who read your hints.

A magnet is a must for your tackle box. It's a good place to put your fishhooks so you always know where they are.

Harry Fain

Dear Heloise:

Just read the hint in your column about polishing brass by removing it and attaching it to an old T-shirt. Then using one piece of the garment to apply the polish and another piece of the same garment to polish with.

I had three brothers in the service and they all had brass to clean. This method worked real well for them.

They took a piece of heavy tin and cut it into the shape of a "U". In fact, it looked a lot like a big two-pronged fork.

They would take the buttons first and slip them through the prongs, hold onto the material underneath and polish away like mad. Then slip the button off—no finger marks—and they would really shine.

They did the same with the insignia on the shoulders and sleeves.

Mrs. Flannagan

If you don't have a piece of tin and the tools to cut it with, bet you could improvise with a real heavy cardboard cut the same way, and still pass inspection with flying colors.

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

Recently my husband and son asked for vacuum bottles filled with coffee to take to work with them.

Then I discovered that I had thrown away the tired old corks and had never bought replacements.

But I'm not one to be stumped!

I took two small wooden spoons, cut one end off each and then wrapped each spoon with masking tape until they fit the vacuum bottles perfectly.

Filled 'em with coffee and sent them on their way.

Quicker than you could wink an eye my son was back and he was having a perfect fit. The seat of his pants was wet. You guessed it—COFFEE.

I had made a mistake somewhere.

He drew my attention to one little detail I had missed, namely, that spoons have little holes in them.

OH ME! What a mistake.

Aunt Het

Dear Heloise:

When giving a bridal or baby shower, have the list of those invited with their addresses on it, and assign it to someone at the shower.

As the guest of honor opens each gift, have the person write the gift and description on the list alongside the correct name.

Then when the bride writes her thank-you notes, all she needs is the list with names, addresses and the gift description.

This way, there is less trouble for her and no chance of mixing up the cards and gifts.

Separated At Birth, Twins Now They Will Never Part

By STELLY

When Roger and Tony were born, they were separated. Roger was born in Miami, a handsome 6 foot 3, 200-pounder with longish red-brown hair parted on the left, sideburns, a cleft in his chin and blue eyes that crinkle when he smiles.

Tony and I missed a lot; we don't ever intend to be separated again," added Roger Brooks, a handsome 6 foot 3, 200-pounder with longish red-brown hair parted on the left, sideburns, a cleft in his chin and blue eyes that crinkle when he smiles.

Tony and Roger Brooks are identical twins. Separated shortly after birth, and raised 1,500 miles apart—one by an Italian Catholic, the other by a Jew—they were reunited by chance at the age of 18.

They found, to their surprise and delight, that they sound and act alike, that their tastes are the same—from their brand of cigarettes to a special imported Swedish toothpaste—and that their eating and sleeping habits are similar.

Both have had scars on their left arms, Roger from burns and Tony from cuts; and, at age 17, each enlisted in the armed forces for four-year hitchhikes, within eight days of each other.

"We had a great time discovering the similarities when we met," said Roger and Tony, together in New York for the recent publication of "The Twins Who Found Each Other," written by Bard Lindeman.

Tony was adopted, at age 5 weeks, by Pauline and Joseph Milani. He was brought up in Binghamton, N. Y., a beloved only child, surrounded by numerous emotional Italian relatives.

Roger was shunted from orphanage to foster homes before going, at age 4, to live with Mildred and Jules Brooks, a Jewish couple. Jules, as Roger later learned, was his natural father.

Roger was raised mainly in Miami, Fla., although by age 16 he had attended eight different schools in four cities, including a boarding school.

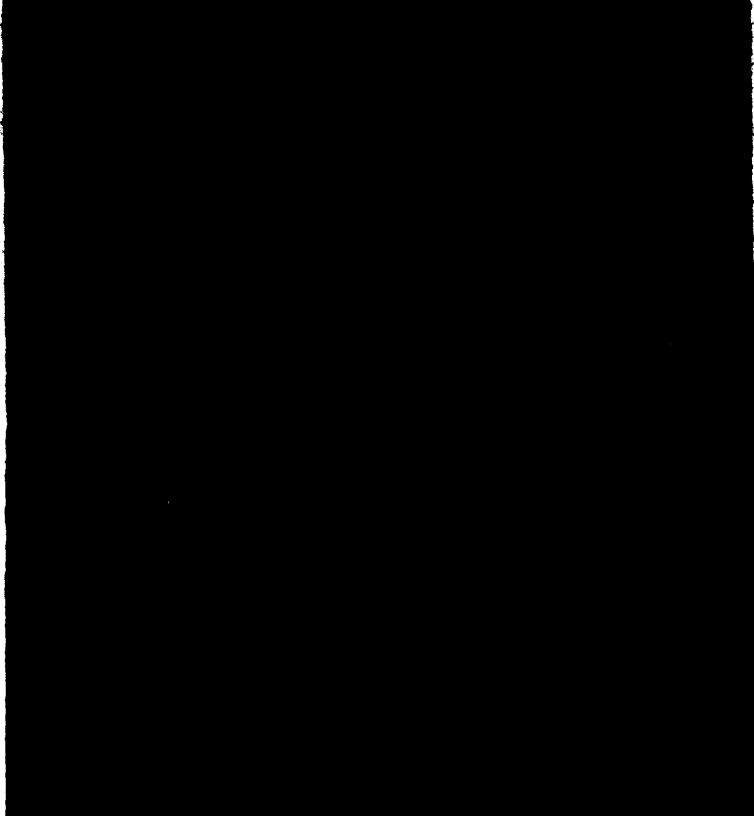

"I didn't know until I was 18," said Roger, "that I had a twin. I was so excited I ran down the street and told people about it."

"I learned, when I was about 7, that I had a twin, the same time I found out I was adopted," Tony recalled. "I liked the idea. My mother said she thought my brother had died but I refused to believe that."

From the moment they learned about their twin it was the dream of each to find the other, but neither knew how to begin.

In 1968 they met by luck—after Roger went to a Miami pancake house where a bus boy refused to believe at first that Roger wasn't Tony. The bus boy, who had known Tony in New York, was struck by the similarity in looks, voice, and even in the manner of holding a coffee cup and smoking a cigarette.

The brothers met by telephone and Tony went to Miami. "It was one of the happiest moments of my life when Tony got out of that airplane," said

A DREAM COME TRUE — Roger Brooks, left, learned at age 18 that he had a twin, Tony Milani. Each dreamed of finding the other. They were reunited by chance at age 18.

Roger, looking with undisguised admiration at his twin, as they sat side by side, each with the right leg crossed over the left and their arms folded in identical fashion. "I got to the airport about two hours early I was so excited."

"I was happy, excited and nervous," chimed in Tony. "We went to a motel and talked till 4:30 or 5 in the morning."

"That's when we began realizing how much alike we were," added Roger. "We're both double jointed, have had trouble with our lower right wisdom tooth, hold a pen the same way, have the same posture and hand movements. When I woke up and saw Tony hugging his pillow with his right arm exactly like I do, it was really something."

By the time Tony left Miami after a 10-day visit, the two had pooled information which added up to more about their birth and parents than either had known before. But it was only when Lindeman began research for the book, talking to almost everyone who had known the brothers, as well as to their natural mother, that their life story fell into place.

The boys, named Russell and Roger Brooks, were born in Binghamton, May 28, 1938, to Jules Brooks, Jewish, and an Italian Catholic girl the author calls Maria. Roger was adopted by the Milanis, who changed his name to Anthony.

Jules was at that time divorced from Mildred Brooks. They later remarried, and when Mrs. Brooks learned about the twins her husband had fathered, she insisted on taking in 4-year-old Russell, then in a foster home. They called him Roger Brooks, thus giving him the name that his brother had originally had. Later Mildred and Jules were divorced a second time and Roger remained with her.

Since their initial meeting the young men, now 31, have been making up for lost time. Roger eventually moved to Binghamton where, until it was sold recently, he and Tony ran a grocery store, "The Twin Market."

Roger is now recreation director for the Susquehanna Valley Home for emotionally disturbed children. Tony works for a management recruiting firm as a personnel consultant.

Each served as best man for the other's wedding—Tony's in February 1964 to blond Shirley Gaydos, and Roger's in February 1965 to brunette Nancy Milani, Tony's cousin. Tony summed up the strange turn of events in their lives with his wedding toast: "Today my cousin becomes my sister-in-law and my brother becomes my cousin."

Roger has a 2-year-old daughter, Stephanie, and another child on the way. The couples live three miles apart in Binghamton and, says Roger, "Both our wives realize that we have to be together."

They seem to have a mutual built-in radar system. When they are asked a question their heads swivel toward each other simultaneously, their eyes meet and the two respond in unison, often in the same phrases.

Although they were reunited by chance, both are convinced they were destined to meet. "Somehow we would have found each other," said Tony. "Definitely," echoed Roger.

Michigan Scene Of 221 October Highway Deaths

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State Police reported 221 traffic deaths on state highways during October, marking the sixth consecutive month in which more than 200 persons died as a result of traffic accidents.

Police said 2,082 persons were killed in Michigan traffic accidents during the first ten months of the year. It was the sixth consecutive year in which Michigan has recorded more than 2,000 traffic fatalities and the ninth time since record-keeping began in 1933 that the state has gone over the 2,000 mark.

Pfotenbauer Combination Receives Honors

Father-Son Duo Shares Coach, Lineman Awards

By MIKE UTT

Upper Peninsula history was made Saturday afternoon at the Delta Supper Club in Escanaba when the U. P. Sportswriters Association gave special honors to a father and son combination as the Coach of the Year and the Lineman of the Year.

Receiving this unusual distinction were Don Pfotenbauer and his son Tom, both big reasons behind the Gladstone Braves' 6-1-1 season record and league championship in the Great Lakes Conference.

Other special honors given by the sportswriters went to Joe Fertile of Ironwood as the Back of the Year and the Menominee Maroons as the Team of the Year.

Don Pfotenbauer recently announced his retirement from the coaching ranks after 31 years at Gladstone High School. In his 21 years, the Braves have had only three losing seasons, a record equaled by few coaches and certainly a credit to his ability.

The Braves came into the 1966 season with just one starter returning from 1965's 8-1 team. They played to a 6-0 tie with Gwin in their season opener before blanking Newberry 23-0 and losing to Ishpeming 14-8. After the loss to Ishpeming, the Braves recorded consecutive victories over Marquette 42-6, Marinette 29-7, Munising 31-6, Negaunee 34-0 and Soo 13-0. On the season, they scored 181 points and allowed just 42.

Pfotenbauer had never been selected Coach of the Year in his career and his selection this year was a great tribute to one of the U.P.'s finest coaches.

Don Pfotenbauer
Coach of the Year

Also nominated for Coach of the Year this year were George McCormick of Gwin, Rex Turvillier of Kingsford, Gerald Parher of Hancock, Ken Hoyer of Menominee and Wayne Melchior of Ironwood.

Tom Pfotenbauer made 66 tackles this season for an average of 8.3 per game. He was an excellent blocker and a vicious tackler, never just trying to bring somebody down, but trying to drive himself right through the ball carrier.

His father commented on his son's play by saying, "Being the coach's son, Tom was on the spot for the brunt of my criticism, but it was a pleasure for me to have had the opportunity to be his coach."

Other players receiving Lineman of the Year nominations were Mark Sundstrom of Sault Ste. Marie, Ray Bray of Norway and Dennis Lukkari of Hancock.

Fertile gained Back of the Year honors after leading Ironwood to a 7-1-1 season. He scored 106 points and rushed for 715 yards in 108 carries. Fertile was also an outstanding punter, booming the ball 12 times for a 49 yard average.

Also receiving mention as Back of the Year nominees were Dan Young of Holy Name, Bob Theuerkauf of Menominee, Terry Froberg of Gwin and John Brown of St. Ignace.

Menominee, co-champions of the Great Northern Conference with Kingsford, captured Team of the Year honors and will receive the Barber Trophy, given each year to the top team in the Upper Peninsula.

Ironically enough, the team which Menominee succeeds as U. P. champion, Escanaba, was the only U. P. team to defeat the Maroons this season. The other loss in the Maroons' 7-2 season came from Two Rivers, Wis.

Menominee was voted the top team in the U. P. in the final week of weekly U. P. Sportswriters Association high school football poll at the end of the season. They opened the 1966 campaign with a 6-0 victory over West Iron County before falling to Escanaba 22-8. They then nipped Holy Name 6-0 before losing again to Two Rivers 40-15. The Maroons then came back to record successive victories over New Holstein, Wis., 41-4, Iron Mountain 25-6, Ironwood 6-0 and Marinette 27-7.

It was the fifth time that the Maroons have been awarded the Barber Trophy.

Other teams nominated for Team of the Year were Gwin (7-0-1), Gladstone (6-1-1), Hancock (7-0-1), Kingsford (6-3) and Ironwood (7-1-1).

Soo Puts Clamps On Iron Rangers

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ontario — The Marquette Iron Rangers, defending United States Hockey League champions, ran into a buzzsaw in the season opener here Friday night before a packed house, losing to the scrambling Canadians, 3-2.

The Iron Rangers outshot the Soo 43-24, but found defenseman Matt Thorpe a tough customer.

Bob Carter, a Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., native, tied the score at 1-1 after Bernie Greco had beaten Brian Lawney earlier in the game. Dave Durkin put the Rangers ahead with Dennis Barlow and Bernie Darlow tallied quickies to give the Canadians a 3-2 lead which they held to the end.

Marquette will be at home Saturday night when the improved Rochester Mustangs invade the Palestra. Game time is 8 p.m.

Following the business portion of the meeting and the selection of the All-U.P. team, the present writers honored eleven former members of the organization and presented each of them with a certificate in appreciation of their many services to the U.P. Sportswriters Association.

Former writers honored included Charles Larson, former sports editor of the Escanaba Daily Press and the first president of the organization, Jim Ripley, Ray Crandall, another former sports editor of the Escanaba Daily Press and now editor of the Iron Mountain News, Tom Fallow and Jim Trethewey, still active members from the Marquette Mining Journal, Larry Ebach, Aldo Andreoli, George Nelson and Gene Maki. Unable to be present at the meeting were Herb Levin and Buck Erickson.

Representatives at Saturday's meeting were Dick Loranger and Pete Boscu, Houghton Mining Gazette; John Wahlstrom and Mike Caruso, Iron Mountain News; Jay Barry, Iron River Reporter; Bill Carow and Mike Sullivan, Ironwood Daily Globe; Tom Fallow and Rick Scherza, Marquette Mining Journal; Pat Carpenter and Ed Barker, Menominee Herald-Leader; Jim Trethewey, Our Sunday Visitor; Ken Fazzari, Sault Ste. Marie, Jim McDonald, St. Ignace Republican News and Mike Utz and Ed McCarthy, Escanaba Daily Press.

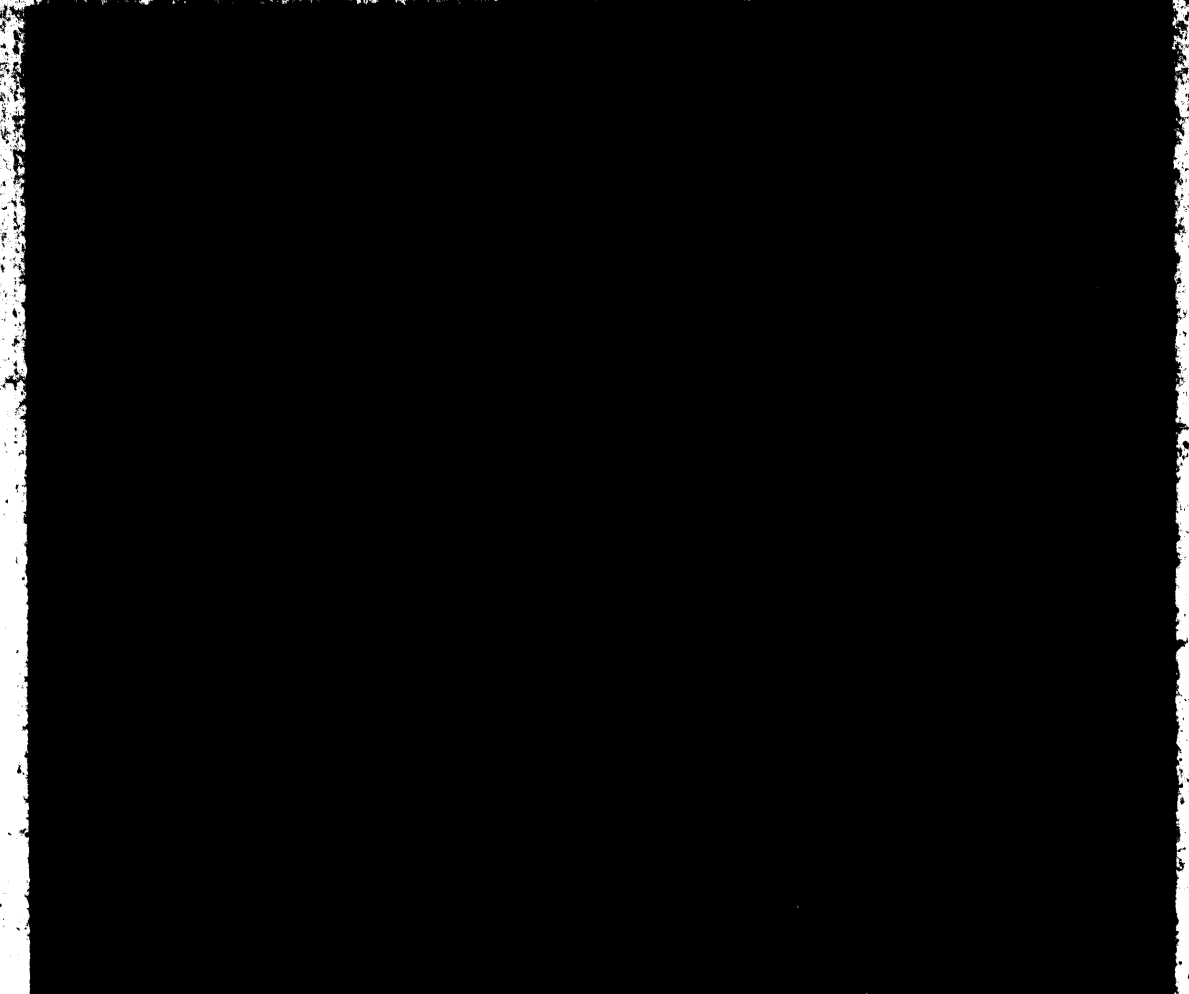

Also attending was Lou Marchiol of the Marquette Mirror, who was unable to vote at the meeting but is eligible to vote at the spring meeting. Rudy Delger of the Crystal Falls Diamond Drill was not present Saturday.

Holton, back in action for the first time in three weeks, had 68 yards rushing including two first half TD runs of nine and 11 yards. The two scores boosted his career total to 32.

Eastern Illinois, after spotting Northern a 14-0 first quarter lead, scored on a 10 yard Terry Tukey to Vic Wicks pass in the second period before Holton's second touchdown and Bob Berkowick's third PAT kick gave the Wildcats a 21-0 margin at halftime.

The Panthers, after being stopped once on the NMU two, scored again on the first play of the fourth quarter when Tom Werner went in from the five. Tukey's two point conversion run made it 21-14 with 1:37 to play.

But Northern, with Ripmaster and Holton alternating, drove the ensuing half-off into field goal range and Gene Grady booted a 37-yarder with 9:16 left to make the final score 21-14.

Six Local Gridders Make All-U.P. Team

By MIKE UTT

Six local prep football stars were among the 23 players named on the Class A-B All-U.P. team which was selected by the U.P. Sportswriters Association at their annual fall meeting Saturday afternoon at the Delta Supper Club in Escanaba.

Escanaba, Holy Name and Gladstone each placed two players on either the offensive or defensive team and Gladstone received additional honors when Don Pfotenbauer was named Coach of the Year and his son, Tom, was named Lineman of the Year.

In addition to the six players receiving first team honors, six more local gridders received honorable mention on the Class A-B team and two players from Bark River's undefeated team were given honorable mention on the Class C-D unit.

First team honors went to Dan Young and Mark Johnson of Holy Name, Pfotenbauer and Cliff Young of Gladstone, Tom Kangas and Gene Timmer of Escanaba. All but Kangas and Johnson are seniors and Dan Young is a repeater from last year's team, although he made it as a defensive linebacker at that time.

Honorable mention was given to Joe Harvey of Holy Name, Bob Young, Lynn Apelgren and Gary Goodman of Gladstone and Bruce Irving and Chuck Olson of Escanaba along with Len Olson and Russ Piriot of Bark River.

In order to give more outstanding recognition on the 1966 team, the sports writers decided to give recognition on only the offensive or defensive team and once a player made one of the teams, he would not be considered as a selection on the other.

Menominee, the 1965 Team of the Year, and Gwin each placed three players on this year's team while Ishpeming, Holy Name, West Iron County, Ironwood, Gladstone, Escanaba, Kingsford and Calumet had two players named and Soo had one.

In the Class C-D balloting, Hancock led the way with five players on the first team, Norway, L'Anse, Houghton, St. Ignace and Stephenson got two each and Munising, DeTour, Rudyard, Ontonagon, Wausau, Engadine and Bessemer got one each.

Dan Young was the leading scorer in the Escanaba area this season, crossing the goal line 14 times for 84 points. In addition, he was also the Crusaders' top rusher, picking up 756 yards in 141 carries and had three games in which he rushed for over 100 yards. He averaged 5.4 yards per carry and 84 yards per game. Young was the third leading rusher in the Great Northern Conference with 288 yards in 71 carries and second leading scorer with 30 points.

Cliff Young, Gladstone's triple threat quarterback, won the quarterback spot in a tight battle with Larry Rizzardi of West Iron County. He scored six touchdowns, six two point conversions and kicked seven extra points for a total of 58 points. He carried the ball 58 times for 396 yards and completed 26 of 60 passing attempts for 810 yards and six touchdowns. Young also completed six more passes for two point conversions.

Also named to the backfield with the two Youngs were Terry Froberg of Gwin and Joe Fertile of Ironwood, the 1965 Back of the Year.

Holy Name scored 24 touchdowns this past season and Mark Johnson, a tackle on the All-U.P. team was responsible for 14 of them over his hole. He also played center and tight end in the Crusader offensive line.

Pfotenbauer turned in outstanding performances both ways for Gladstone this season and was rated an excellent blocker by Don Pfotenbauer, his coach and father.

Joining Johnson and Pfotenbauer in the interior offensive line were Chuck Vukovich of Ironwood, tackle; Guy Chaput of Gwin, guard and Mark Sundstrom of Sault Ste. Marie, center. Mike Bartucci of Ishpeming and Kevin McDonald of West Iron County, who had a big night against Escanaba, were named to the offensive end posts.

Kangas, playing his first year on the Escanaba varsity, had a real fine year at defensive end and also filled in at quarterback on numerous occasions. He was Escanaba's best pass rusher and he also recovered two fumbles and blocked two kicks. As a quarterback, Kangas engineered Escanaba's 26-6 triumph over Menominee.

Named to the defensive line with Kangas were Mike Church and Tom Peterson of Kingsford, Ken Pederson of Menominee and Bruce Rivard of West Iron County.

Gerry Richards of Ishpeming, Bob Edholm of Calumet and Bill Ross of Menominee won out in a close battle for the linebacker positions.

Four players received the required majority vote as defensive halfbacks and all four were named to the team. Honored were Timmer, Mike Utalo of Calumet, Ron Stuart of Gwin and Bob Theuerkauf of Menominee.

Timmer was one of Escanaba's captains during the season and was named the Most Valuable Player at the end of the year. In addition to carrying 13 passes for 237 yards as an offensive end, Timmer intercepted three passes and ran one back 55 yards for a touchdown. He also recovered two fumbles, both of which were responsible for setting up DeTours touchdowns.

The Class C-D team was led by DeTour's outstanding junior Martin Ledy and ending running backs John Brown of St. Ignace, Reggie Ripmaster of Rudyard and Don Michelson of L'Anse. Brown, Reggie Ripmaster and Michelson are all repeaters from last year's squad. Ledy was named to last year's team as a linebacker.

Brown rushed for 1,285 yards this season and scored 112 points, giving him a career total of 345. Ripmaster picked up 1,288 yards rushing during 1965 and crossed the goal line 15 times.

Another player who was named to last year's Class C-D team in Walpole's first year this. Last year he was named as a defensive halfback and he received honors for 1965 as a defensive halfback.

John Brown threw a pair of late TD passes that changed an Escanaba lead to a tie at 24-24. But Gabriel, who rushed for 280 yards, got another TD in the fourth quarter to give his team a 27-24 victory.

Landry Leads Lions Over Falcon Eleven

(AP) — If he has the game, quarterback Landry may end up as the Detroit Lions' most congested part of the team. And with the way the Lions have been crowding Landry lately he may be able to get a corner spot ordinarily reserved for the "big gun."

You're going to get a lot of action out of Landry, said Coach Joe Schmidt, "as long as we win."

Since Landry took over for the injured Bill Munson Detroit has won three and lost one.

Landry fired a 13-yard touchdown pass to Earl McCullough to give Detroit a 7-0 first-quarter lead. Then he set up the Lions' next score with a 43-yard pass to tight end Charlie Sanders who made a spectacular catch and ran to the Atlanta one.

Fullback Bill Triplet plunged over for a score on the first play of the second quarter.

The Falcons came right back with the aid of a 40-yard pass interference penalty. Quarterback Randy Johnson fired a 15-yard touchdown pass to former Lion Gail Coghill to narrow the lead to 14-7.

But Bobby Williams took the ensuing kickoff and raced 96 yards to give back the touchdown to Detroit. Errol Mann also booted a 13-yard field goal in the quarter moments after 2:55 — pound All — Pro tackle Alex Karras intercepted a Johnson pass and rumbled 22 yards to the Falcon 37.

Detroit was not the same team in the second half. A 34-yard field goal by Mann in the fourth quarter was all the Lions could manage. Atlanta, meanwhile, came back with a one-yard TD plunge by Jim Butler in the third quarter and a 45-yard touchdown pass from Johnson to Butler three minutes before the final gun.

Butter's first score was set up by two consecutive Johnson passes that netted 50 yards.

But the Lions stopped Atlanta on the goal line during a second-quarter Falcon drive and Dennis Moore recovered a Johnson fumble on the Lion 25 in the final period to stop another threat.

The Lions are now tied with Green Bay for second in the Central Division of the Western Conference. Minnesota, which trounced Cleveland 51-3, is in first.

SPARTAN FUMBLE — Michigan State's Don Highsmith (40) fumbles the football after being grabbed by Purdue's Tim Foley (43) in the first quarter of Saturday's game in Lafayette, Ind. Highsmith managed to recover the ball for the Spartans, but Purdue went on to score a 41-13 victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Buckeyes, Purdue Win; Showdown Set Saturday

By The Associated Press

This is the week that was for Purdue's football team. The once-beaten Boilermakers travel to Columbus, Ohio, en route, they hope, to a New Year's Day engagement in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.

It's the week Purdue has been waiting for since the start of the season—Purdue at Ohio State. And, like the old, gasp headline that read, "Stags Fears Purdue," you can bet that Woody Hayes of top-ranked Ohio State fears Purdue. He has ordered closed workouts this week for his Buckeyes.

Both teams warmed up for the task at hand Saturday. Ohio State made it 21 consecutive victories with a 62-7 mauling of Wisconsin while 10th-ranked Purdue breezed past Michigan State 41-13.

Despite their 7-0 record, the Buckeyes have some points to prove. One is to answer critics who say they haven't beaten anyone of note. Ohio State's first seven foes have a combined 12-4 record while Purdue and Michigan, the final opponent, are 13-3.

Also, the Buckeyes would like to think that the Big Ten's best won't go to the Rose Bowl. Since they're ineligible under league rules to return this year, they'd like nothing better than to knock off whoever will make the trip and right now it's Ohio State with a 5-0 conference record to 4-1 for Purdue and Michigan.

With ace quarterback Rex Kern resting a bruised shoulder, second stringer Ron Maciejowski took over Saturday and passed for 139 yards and two touchdowns while running for 106. Fullback Jim Otis scored three times.

Purdue set a Big Ten passing record of 406 yards in trimming Michigan State's star, Philipps, the Boilermakers' star, accounted for 222 and took over sixth place in NCAA career total of 5,470 yards.

Michigan, ranked 18th, breezed past winless Illinois 57-0 with Billy Taylor scampering for an 84-yard touchdown and 71 other yards.

Second-ranked Texas overcame a virus that struck 30 players and manhandled Baylor 56-14 for a school record 16th consecutive triumph. Tennessee, No. 3, defeated South Carolina 29-14 on Bobby Scott's three touchdowns passes and George Hunt's three field goals. The Vols have their biggest hurdle toward a perfect season Saturday against Mississippi.

Quarterback Bill Montgomery cranked up Arkansas' sputtering offense in the second half and the fourth-ranked Razorbacks whipped Rice 30-6.

Penn State, No. 5, and UCLA, No. 7, were idle, but sixth-ranked Southern California downed Washington State 28-7 as Clarence "Who's O.J.?" Davis is reeled off 196 yards and passed the 1,000 mark.

Eighth-ranked Notre Dame blasted Pitt 49-7 and ninth-ranked Missouri rallied from a 10-point deficit and remained

Colts Top Packers; Title Chances Fade

BALTIMORE — The Green Bay Packers were forced to do without quarterback Bart Starr here Sunday, and the Baltimore Colts were just too forceful to allow a stunt like that. The Colts won a National Football League game, 14-6 and dealt a mighty blow to the Packers' hopes of overhauling Minnesota in the Central Division race.

Don Horn replaced Starr and did far better than he had last week against Pittsburgh, but not well enough. The only points he put on the board were supplied by Mike Mercer's field goals, and Mercer had two kicks blocked to go with the two he made.

Starr ran the Packers through their first series of downs — perhaps as a gesture by coach Phil Bengtson, who had been reprimanded by the league last week for failing to announce that Starr would not start in Pittsburgh — but then he went out to rest his aching arm, and Horn replaced him.

The youngster didn't do badly, although Green Bay's only points in the first half were provided by Mike Mercer's field goals, of 14 and 47 yards.

But the Colts did better than that, with two passes thrown by John Unitas. The first, a relatively routine throw over the middle to tight end Tom Mitchell, turned into something spectacular when Doug Hart and Ray Nitschke, who were trying to tackle Mitchell, slammed into each other instead. Mitchell popped out of the collision like a pit out of a squeezed cherry and ran on into the end zone to provide Baltimore with a 7-3 lead with five minutes left in the first quarter.

Mercer's long goal — it was probably 10 yards farther than it had to be, and arrow straight — cut the gap to a point before the first period ended.

But in the second, Unitas went hunting again. He took the Colts 51 yards, after Mercer's 45 yard field goal attempt was blocked, and he got the touchdown on a three yard pass to Ray Perkins, who was alone in the middle of the end zone while Bob Jeter and Willie Wood were at the side.

The coverage mistakes which freed Mitchell and Perkins were spectacular, but this was not a replay of that tired script the Packers have used before this season — these touchdowns were not donations by Green Bay.

Indeed, the Colts proved far more generous in the first two periods. Unitas' passes were intercepted twice by Herb Adderly in the first quarter and by Jeter in the second.

But the Packers didn't get much mileage out of the chances. The first time they got to the six, with the help of a penalty on Baltimore's Jim Dunbar for roughing the kicker, Donny Anderson's acting ability didn't hurt at that point, either — and then Mercer kicked a field goal.

The second time they had second and four on the eight, after Horn's 45 yard pass to Carroll Dale, when Torn threw into a crowd in the end zone and Rick Volk intercepted.

Now the Packers trail the Vikings two games, and not even a victory next week, when Minnesota plays at Milwaukee County Stadium, will be enough to do the trick without outside help later in the year.

Red Hot Pistons Lose To Phoenix

The Detroit Pistons hammered in an amazing 55 percent of their shots from the field ... and if you think that was good, you should have seen what the winners did.

Despite the Pistons' sure-fire field goal shooting, enough to win most games, Phoenix controlled the backboards and ran away with a 140-129 decision in the National Basketball Association Sunday night.

The Suns erupted for 71 points in the first half and maintained a good lead throughout the second half.

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, New York clipped Los Angeles, 112-102, and Baltimore thumped Milwaukee, 116-105.

On Saturday night, Cincinnati tripped Baltimore, 130-121; Milwaukee defeated Detroit, 100-96; Seattle took Philadelphia, 125-117; Atlanta whipped San Francisco, 108-93, and Chicago downed Boston, 108-97.

In the American Basketball Association Sunday, Kentucky defeated New York, 128-118, in overtime; New Orleans squeezed by Pittsburgh, 120-119, and Los Angeles bounced Miami, 126-115.

Eddie Miles had a team-high 22 points for the Pistons, whose fine field goal shooting could not offset Phoenix's superior rebounding. The Suns wound up with a 51-32 advantage in rebounds.

Connie Hawkins of Phoenix led all scorers with 35 points, including a 16-of-22 performance from the field. Jim Fox and Gail Goodrich added 24 and 21 points respectively for the winners.

Baltimore pulled away from a 98-97 lead with seven quick points with four minutes left in the game, then staved off any hopes for a Milwaukee comeback by dominating both backboards.

Baltimore's Kevin Loughery scored 12 points in the final period to finish with 27, high for both teams. Low Alcindor and Ken Chappell paced the Bucks with 24 points apiece.

Willie Reed's 35 points led New York's triumph over the Lakers, playing without their star center, Wilt Chamberlain, out with an injured leg.

Dick Barnett, with 24 points, and Bill Bradley with 21 supported Reed as the Knicks won their 14th game in 15 starts. Jerry West led Los Angeles with 28.

Sluggish Jets Set Club Mark

By The Associated Press

What's wrong with the New York Jets?

"Not a thing," replied quarterback Joe Joe Namath. "We're 7-2, aren't we?"

True, Sunday's 16-6 conquest of Buffalo was a club-record sixth straight triumph for the New Yorkers, boosting them into a comfortable 3 1/2-game lead in the American Football League's Eastern Division.

But, in five of those victories, the Jets didn't even display a shadow of last year's explosive ability that carried them to the Super Bowl championship. And, in their last four triumphs, the Jets really weren't assured of victory until the closing minutes.

"They're not functioning as well as they were at this stage last season," commented losing Coach John Rauch.

Meanwhile, while the Jets were struggling to hand the Bills their seventh loss in nine games, Kansas City maintained its half-game edge in the Western Division by dumping San Diego 27-3; second-place Oakland tripped Denver 41-10; Cincinnati beat Houston 31-21 on Horne Muhlmann's 18-yard field goal with 22 seconds left, and Miami nipped Boston 17-16.

Bill Mathis' bulled one-yard for the Jets' only touchdown in the second quarter, while reliable Jim Turner, the AFL scoring leader, kicked three field goals — the last with 37 seconds to go — The Bills' super-rookie, O. J. Simpson, who picked up 70 yards in 14 carries, had a three-yard first period TD called back because he was in motion before the snap. Bruce Alford's 15-yard field goal try then was blocked by Paul Crane.

Two other Alford field goal attempts also were blocked in the first half before he connected on a 20-yarder with no time on the clock in the second quarter and a 20-yarder in the third period.

Halfback Warren McVea surprised San Diego with a left-handed 54-yard scoring strike to Frank Pits in the third quarter, then scored on a two-yard plunge early in the final period to break open a tight game as

Sports Show Is Well Received

Saturday's Sports Show featured a large number of people who visited exhibitors set up in the new shop of the high school.

The area merchants who took part were very pleased with the response and hope this show can be an annual affair, according to Mrs. Jeanne Legon, acting chairman of the Retail Division, Manistique Area Chamber of Commerce.

A winter fashion show at 7:30 Saturday night concluded the day's activities. Gift certificates awards went to Don Gilroy of Manistique, $15; Jim Johnson, 500 Range St., $10; and Ruth Rogers, 114 N. Second St., $5.

Area merchants taking part in the Sports Show included Nelson's 66, Northern Woolens, People's Store, Soder's of Curtis, Bluebird Sales and Service, U.S. Forest Service, Watson's Marina of Curtis, Wood's General Tire, LeCroz Small-Spunges, Frank's Sport Center, Blaney Park Resort, Gambler's, Laumann's, J. C. Furney Company and Mark Motors.

The Manistique Area Chamber of Commerce and Community School co-sponsored the event.

Supt. Edwin E. Wuehle of the Manistique Area Schools is a contributor to "Administrators' Forum" in the November issue of School Management Magazine.

Along with six other panelists — all school superintendents from across the nation — the administrators offer their ideas and possible solutions to certain school-related problems.

In the current issue, the panel discussed handling of the following situations: a teacher who used her students in a school bond campaign; parents' complaints that an English teacher recommends "obscene" literature to ninth grade students; and bus driver demands to kick troublemakers off buses.

Superintendents serving with Wuehle on the panel numbered Marvin Gerlich, Lincolnwood, Ill.; R. Dean Horton, Columbus Grove, Ohio; George Iannaccone, Palisades Park, N.J.; Robert F. Savitt, Plainview, N.Y.; Keith B. Walton, Los Nietos, Calif.; and Kenneth F. Williams, Edgerton, Wis.

ILSC Employee Total Now 345

The total employment figure for the Gulliver plant of the Inland Lime and Stone Company was boosted to 345 with the recent hiring of three men.

Added to the work force were Joseph Brager, Rte. 1; Ronald Frenette, Gulliver; and Dennis Troxler, Blaney Park.

A late shutdown of operations is expected this year because a critical shortage of vessels is delaying stone shipments to customers, according to Limestone Chips, a monthly newsletter published for Inland employees.

The quarry and mill are both operating at a slower rate than normal this year and shipping is expected to continue far into December, as weather conditions will permit.

Obituary

SIDNEY J. MORAN

Sidney J. Moran, 70, 340 Schoolcraft Ave., died Saturday, Nov. 8 in the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient for ten days. He was a lifelong resident of this area.

Mr. Moran was born Dec. 17, 1898 in Thompson. He was a veteran of World War II and served as a private with the 91st Infantry Division. He was a member of American Legion Post 83 and a communicant of St. Francis de Sales Church.

Mr. Moran was employed by the Manistique and Lake Superior Railroad until his retirement.

Survivors include four sisters, Mrs. Hans (Josephine) Olson, with whom he made his home; Mrs. Della Fugere and Miss Rose Moran, all of Manistique; and Mrs. Peter (Nettie) Quinlan, Newberry. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Visitation will begin today at 4 p.m. at the Meester-Brouillette Funeral Home. Liturgical prayers will be recited tonight at 8:30. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. from the St. Francis de Sales Church. Burial will follow in the Fairview Cemetery.

Midwest Unrest Hikes Problems

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli planes attacked Egyptian targets Sunday and today in the wake of the first Egyptian naval strike against Israeli land forces since the 1967 war.

The Israeli planes hit military targets on the western shore of the Gulf of Suez today, south of the Suez Canal, and all planes returned safely, a spokesman said.

On Sunday, the Israeli planes attacked along the central section of the canal, and all planes reportedly came back.

There was no report of the damage done in either raid.

Israel denied that its forces suffered any damage in the naval bombardment Saturday night of an Israeli base in the Sinai Desert 20 miles east of the entrance to the Suez Canal. Newsmen taken to the area found shell fragments and spent marks in the sand but no other evidence of the shelling.

Road Renamed

LANSING (AP) — A 54-mile section of M 47 in Ingham, Shiawassee and Saginaw counties will be renamed M 88, says the State Highway Department. The change will establish M 88 as a continuously numbered, north-south area service highway between the Michigan-Chicago line and M 48 west of Saginaw.

The renumbering is in conjunction with the opening of two sections of the highway in Ingham and Shiawassee counties. The department says M 47 north of M 48 will be unaffected by the change.

Hospital

Admitted to the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital Friday were Elizabeth Carson.

Discharged were Todd LeLonde, Vickie Parrish, Lois Bryant, Lee Dean and Dolores Gaudier and baby.

3 Minor Mishaps Reported Here

Three minor accidents were reported by Manistique Public Safety officers, tickets were issued to the motorists involved but no personal injuries were reported.

Wallace Leggett, 179 N. Cedar St., was ticketed for driving left of centerline after his pickup truck struck a Michigan Bell telephone pole on the Tannery Rd. at 3:40 Saturday morning. The Leggett vehicle sustained damage and was towed by wrecker from the scene of the mishap.

An automobile driven by Russell B. Jensen, 516 Park Ave., struck a car driven by Daniel J. Barton, 513 N. Mackinac Ave., at 13:40 a.m. Saturday on Deer St. near the Weston Ave. intersection. Jensen told officers moisture on his windshield obstructed his vision. He was cited for driving left of centerline. Both cars were damaged and removed by wrecker.

An automobile driven by William J. Sheehan Jr., 223 Range St., struck a pole at the siphon bridge approach on Deer St. at 10:20 Thursday night. He was ticketed for failure to have vehicle under control and his car was towed by wrecker from the scene.

Under investigation by Public Safety officers is the report of an accident and overturn of a Woodward Salvage Company woodshed, Main St., which occurred sometime Thursday night or early Friday morning. They were galled by cutting the shed on a deer lock with a truck. Missing is 200 pounds of copper wire.

Two Bay De Noc Scholarships Available Here

Two $300 scholarships for Bay de Noc Community College have been given to the Manistique Area Schools for use next year by William Primrose, Escanaba philanthropist, according to Mrs. Lee Pappas, guidance counselor.

The scholarship money will be available to the school after April 1, 1970, Primrose said in a letter to Supt. Edwin E. Wuehle.

Other scholarships have been given by Primrose, who is a resident in the Bishop Wan Home in Escanaba, in previous years and have helped students in Escanaba, Gladstone and Manistique.

Students interested in the awards should contact Mrs. Pappas at the guidance office.

Delay Possible In Measure On Meat-Packing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is expected to support a proposed year's delay in implementing a new law setting minimum nationwide standards for intrastate meat packing plants, according to government sources.

If the delay—in the form of a Senate bill—is not approved by Congress and signed by the President by Dec. 15, the 1967 Wholesome Meat Act becomes effective despite reports the states are not prepared for it.

The law covers about 16,000 plants packing 15 per cent of the nation's meat.

Packers dealing in more than one state are already subject to federal inspection. The 1967 act requires states to set up standards for plants operating entirely within their boundaries, and the regulations have to be at least as tough as those governing their interstate competitors. Under the law, however, a state making progress toward meeting the standards can be given an extra year to complete the program.

Agriculture Department officials have said for several months that they expect very few states to be making even satisfactory initial progress by Dec. 15, therefore allowing the department to move into the states with federal inspectors. To date, no state has been certified as having met the requirements.

Consumer protection crusader Ralph Nader has criticized the department for dragging its heels on pushing for compliance and called the department "far more solicitous of packer protection than consumer protection."

Nader said last July that Agriculture Department sources told him that no state will be able to meet the deadline, "or, for that matter, a December 1970 deadline."

Reattached Arm Appears Okay

WAYNE, Mich. (AP) — Ten days after they reattached the arm lost by a Michigan garbage collector in an accident, doctors at Wayne County General Hospital report the operation has been successful.

"The body has not rejected the limb, the danger is past," said Dr. H.J. Wells, hospital superintendent reported.

However, he held out little hope that Donald E. Musser, 35, of Belleville, Mich., will ever have full normal use of the arm.

His arm was severed at the elbow while trying to load a bedspring into a packer garbage truck Oct. 29.

Musser said his arm was caught by a packer blade as he tried to force a projecting spring ahead of it.

"The arm and hand will be better than an artificial one and far, far better than what he could have expected," said Wells.

A team of medical experts performed the surgery soon after the accident. Wells credited the quick action of three Westland policemen who applied a tourniquet, and the immediate availability of a surgical team at the hospital for the success.

The policeman recovered the severed arm by rummaging through the garbage truck and rushing it to a hospital. It was carried by doctors to keep it from being before it was reattached.

Dr. Wells said most patients of similar accidents, he said, would have lost the arm.
